Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ON STANTINOPLE, Nov. 2.—The Ironclad Kaiser bearing the Emperor and Empress of Germany, arrived in the Golden Horn at 10 this morning, escorted by the Turkish Squadron which met her at the Dardanelles and conducted her through the Sea of Marmora. The populace occupied the house tops as far as the eye could see, lining the shores on both sides in dense masses. The Emperor, who was dressed in the Turkish dress, came to anchor and were redoubled by the fortifications.

THE LANDING. At 11 the Emperor and Empress and suite landed and were received by the Sultan, surrounded by his Ministers and magnificent retainers. Salutes were fired from the Emperor stepped on shore. The Sultan met him with great ceremony and welcomed him to Istanbul. The Empress and Prince Henry were then presented to the Sultan and received with grave and stately courtesy. After an exchange of greetings and further introductions all entered the carriage drawn by six of the purest Arabian breed and were driven through solid lines of Turkish troops and an enormous crowd of people to the Yildiz Kiosk.

The Empress and Sultan occupied the first carriage, the Emperor, Prince Henry and the Grand Vizier the second. At the Yildiz Palace, which was a scene of bewildering beauty, the illustrious visitors took a repast and rested.

THE GRAND REVIEW. In the afternoon the Sultan held a grand review of the troops. There were twelve battalions of infantry, four of cavalry and six batteries of artillery. The Emperor, who sat on horseback by the side of the Sultan, closely watched the troops and their evolutions and frequently turned to the Sultan to express his admiration. The city is ablaze with illuminations. Elaborate fireworks are displayed, and the waters are covered with galleys of all kinds, carrying lanterns of varied colors.

The Significance of the Visit.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch. LONDON, Nov. 2.—The visit of the German Emperor to Constantinople has attracted the attention of Europe. The splendor of the affair was sure to be unexampled, but its significance is far beyond that. The young Emperor is making history. His proceeding is one of the most momentous in the development of the Eastern question. Germany by this act becomes at once a prime factor in it. Prince Bismarck's Balkan was not won to Germany the bones of a single Germanic grandeur. Now he sends Count Herbert, his son, to accompany, counsel and guide the Emperor on his mission. The object at last sight is no doubt to secure to Constantinople support of the triple alliance. But there are consequences far beyond this contemplated by the Great Chancellor. Russia foresees and fears them and watches jealously the spectacle at Istanbul. To counteract the effect, it is announced that the Czar, who remains at Athens, has been directed by the Czar to visit the Sultan before he returns home.

Another aspect with intense interest upon the scene. France is filled with fresh discontent, seeing the remains of her power in the East departing in the East. The Sultan's attitude toward the Kaiser has been watched with the keenest interest.

to see that her pathway to India is not interfered with, otherwise her government regards Germany's act with friendly consideration. The immediate result of this master stroke of Bismarck is to make Germany more than ever the greatest power on the continent and the arbiter of peace and war.

AT THE MERCY OF THE TURK. The Christian Population of Crete Made to Feel the Heel of the Moslem.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—RETE continues to attract more attention than any piece of territory of the same area in Europe. It is the old story of Turkish methods. The Turks have never known any other way of settling difficulties between Mahomedans and Christians than that of sending a Turkish officer with a body of soldiers to put down the "revolt" with the utmost severity. This does not mean what it would in Western Europe, court-martials and military executions. There are executions, no doubt, but there seems to be no previous judicial inquiry even of a summary nature. The Turkish plan is to send troops of an inferior kind, in some instances irregulars in Crete at present, to put down the revolt of the Turkish troops. The troops fraternize with their co-religionists, and then both together undertake the congenial task of trampling on the infidel.

TURKISH ATROCITIES. Resistance is impracticable, for the wily Chakir Pasha, the new Governor of Crete, by his fair promises induced the inhabitants to surrender all their principal posts of defense. Accordingly the brutality and savagery of the soldiers have free play. The Mahomedan inhabitants having the soldiers on their side brutally beat their Christian neighbors at every opportunity. When the Christians complain to the Turkish judges they are reminded that an unbelieving dog has no rights and is not capable of being a witness. The prisons are crowded to overflowing and the people are reduced to desperation. The few insurgents who still retain arms, notwithstanding Chakir's deceptive promises, are daily receiving fresh recruits owing to the continuation of outrages by Turkish troops and fresh fighting may soon be expected. Such a condition of affairs is not abnormal in Turkey. The abnormal thing is that the Powers, among them Great Britain, having more than once in the past refused to allow Crete to be separated from the Ottoman Empire, are commonly supposed to have advised the Sultan to "restore order" in Crete to avoid international difficulties.

OFFERED BY BISMARCK. It was reported to-day that the Emperor William had contemplated as a kind of bridal gift to his sister, Princess Sophie, on the occasion of her recent marriage to the Crown Prince of Greece, to insist on the immediate cession of Crete to the Kingdom of Greece, and the withdrawal of the Turkish troops, but Prince Bismarck feared that such a step would interrupt Germany's good understanding with Turkey. That this is the Prince's view is confirmed by the National Zeitung's declaration that Turkey occupies a solid position in the European concert.

LOYD'S OPPORTUNITY. A Chance to Stir Up Trouble for Great Britain—Events in England. Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch. LONDON, Nov. 2.—Mr. Clifford Lloyd, who for ten years has originated many difficulties for the British government, who met with trouble if he did not cause trouble in Ireland, and in Egypt, has been sent as ambassador to the Sultan of Egypt, where he will not be without further opportunities. There is plenty of trouble which may be stirred up in the sphere of authority. The Salisbury convention of 1878 is still in existence. There is the unfulfilled stipulation of the Berlin treaty with regard to Armenia. There are debated questions about the road from the Black Sea into Persia which traverses almost the whole length of Mr. Lloyd's new jurisdiction. The district is a hotbed of Turkish and a large sprinkling of Russians and Persians, and many are the predictions this evening that Mr. Lloyd will before long do something which will make it necessary for the Government to transfer him to some region where there is less risk of political complications.

SPLICING THE CABLE. The steamer Britannia of the Eastern Telegraph Co. cable fleet, which sailed from London on October 24 to repair the broken United States direct cable, reported off Cape Race on October 30. She succeeded in recovering the American end of the cable on Friday morning, November 1, and buoyed it. This morning she found the Irish end and effected a splice at 2 o'clock this afternoon, restoring perfect communication between America and Ireland. The break occurred in the deep sea between the Newfoundland and Cape Race cables, in the neighborhood of recovering the broken cable, and restoring communication their feat eclipses all previous achievements of the kind even at the most favorable seasons of the year.

THE CAPTAIN RESPONSIBLE. The Government Court which investigated the causes which led to the stranding of the Cunard line steamer Malta, which went ashore near Landsea and became a total wreck, holds the Captain responsible for the accident, and has suspended his certificate for three months. The U. S. S. Enterprise has arrived at Torbay. She experienced gales Thursday, while cruising.

WALES IN EGYPT. A Paris paper says that the Prince of Wales has been received in Egypt as a veritable sovereign. His visit, the paper says, is intended to increase England's prestige on the Nile, and to reaffirm her right of protectorate over Egypt. France cannot afford to ignore the importance of the visit.

THE FACTORY DISASTER. Twenty-nine bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the portion of Templeton's largest factory at Glasgow, which was destroyed by a falling chimney. It is now definitely ascertained that the total number of killed is thirty.

The municipal authorities have had very little difficulty in fixing the blame for yesterday's disaster, and have lost no time in doing so. It seems to be conceded by everybody that the responsibility for the catastrophe is to be laid on the shoulders of the fallen building, which placed its foundation above a long disused coal pit, knowing the extreme liability of serious consequences resulting from the erection of a massive building upon a base so insecure. One of the owners has been seen since the building fell and is generally believed that he has fled to escape the legal consequences of the disaster for human life which the situation of the building implied.

ANOTHER STRIKE THREATENED. It is feared that next Monday will witness a revival of the recent great strike of the dock laborers and lightermen, with consequences difficult to foresee. It is claimed by the lightermen that the masters have failed to keep the agreement whereby they returned to work a short time ago, and 6,000 men stand ready to strike the moment the word is given. In the coming struggle the lightermen rely upon the assistance of the dock laborers, and it remains to be seen to what extent the latter will reward the services of the lightermen, who struck in sympathy with the dock laborers, in view of the fact that the advanced rates of pay for which the dockmen struck go into effect on Monday. It is predicted by many impartial persons that the lightermen will discover, when too late, that their estimate of the degree of gratitude entertained by the dockmen now in the enjoyment of the increased pay which the lightermen helped them to get, has been placed entirely too high. Ben Tillett, the able lieutenant of John Burns in the direction of the dockmen's strike, was treated to a reception of enormous proportions at Oxford last evening, when in the course of his address he explained the late strike to a large number of prominent persons occupying the platform and an immense audience of workmen.

SALISBURY'S COMING SPEECH. Lord Salisbury has no oratorical engagement before Lord Mayor's Day, and it needs no extraordinary prescience to foresee that his speech then will be devoted mainly to foreign politics. His supporters have been saying that he will not omit to refer to Mr. Gladstone's article on the triple alliance and to deprecate the suggestions which have been deduced from it. But it is stated on good authority this afternoon that this is incorrect, and that although Lord Salisbury may not identify himself with Gladstone's article on the triple alliance and to deprecate the suggestions which have been deduced from it. But it is stated on good authority this afternoon that this is incorrect, and that although Lord Salisbury may not identify himself with Gladstone's article on the triple alliance and to deprecate the suggestions which have been deduced from it.

THE HATFELDT.

An Unpleasant Scene Prevented—Americans Abroad—Society Group.

ORDON, Nov. 2.—The ceremony maintained as to the precise hour of the Hatzfeldt wedding was for the purpose of preventing a scene of the kind which occurred at the wedding of the Countess of Arundell, who was offered to in an exact manner from a Paris paper cabled the "Hatzfeldt" last night, came to London with a companion for the purpose of making a row at the ceremony, but she got muddled in her plans and arrived after everything had passed off smoothly. Her companion went to Brown's Hotel and insisted on seeing Miss Huntington. He succeeded in notifying the family of the bride, who, Mrs. A. was, with a claim that Hatzfeldt owed her money. Hatzfeldt, while admitting to his relations with a woman, said the claim was not true, but that it was a common form of blackmail men of his exalted station were obliged to submit to. The woman has gone back to Paris vowing vengeance if the money is not paid. Mrs. A. is one of three sisters who are daughters of a famous officer. Left poor by their father's death they adopted a fast life. The name of the second sister has been associated with Antonio Terry, who was also among the flock of admirers of Clara Huntington in Paris last winter.

SHERMAN MARTIN. Bradley Martin and wife have been here this week consulting solicitors to ascertain whether their son Sherman's clandestine marriage with Annie Nunn can be annulled. They were told that the ceremony was in every way binding. The only phase for the courts to deal with, if called upon, was the false telegram by which Mrs. Martin was deceived into the marriage. The facts were given in the Post-Dispatch. Sherman Martin himself says he does not want the marriage annulled, and that forgoing the telegram was with him a matter of honor to protect the girl he married. She denies that there has ever been any talk of separation on condition of Martin's paying Mrs. Sherman Martin a large sum of money. Sherman says his father has made a settlement on him. He proposes to live in London. His parents saw their son often during the week but did not see his wife. Bradley Martin has been advertising in all the London papers for the last ten days that he has made his son a sufficient allowance for necessities and will not be answerable for further debts incurred by him. Sherman has been living pretty expensively since the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Martin have gone back to their estate at Broom's Barn, near Salisbury, and will sail for home on the Kauria on the 28th inst.

BARNUM IN TOWN. No country town in America has ever gone wilder over the arrival of Barnum's Circus than has London. The English friends of "the great and only" have arranged a banquet to welcome him, next Friday night, at the Hotel Victoria. The Committee of Management includes Earl Roseberry, Randolph Churchill, Charles Balfour, Earl Lathom, Col. North, Philip Cunliffe, Owen Leopold Rothschild and Alfred Rothschild. The Earl of Kilmorri will take the chair. The toast of the evening will be proposed by George Augustus Sala.

PERSONAL NOTES. The wedding of Lady Mildred with Jessup of Philadelphia will not take place till next summer. Sarasate, the famous fiddler, sailed on the Ems. Collis Huntington and family, Robert Gould, Robert B. D. O. Mills, Mrs. Parson Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson on the Teutonic. George Bliss, J. F. Edward, George W. Turner, Archbishop Janssens of New Orleans, Bishop Scanlon of Salt Lake City and Rudolph V. Martinson on the City of New York.

Martinsen has just come from Amsterdam, where he obtained a lot of proxies to vote against Jay Gould in the Missouri and Kansas Pacific Railroad fight. Warren Healy of New York sailed on the Burgoyne.

She Loved Her Money Better.

PARIS, November 2.—The real trouble with the Caldwell wedding is precisely the same as that which threatened to rupture the Huntington-Hatzfeldt affair, but which Hatzfeldt yielded to parental pressure, Murat was stubborn. He was not satisfied with the proposed allowance of 50,000 francs offered him by Miss Caldwell. He wanted to control the principal part of her fortune. She refused, and on the eve of the wedding packed her wedding clothes and started for America. As for the talking of this event, which the Post-Dispatch first made public, in the American colony here the girl's good sense is generally commended.

THE FRENCH SHOW. It will Officially Close Next Wednesday—America's Part in the Exposition. Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch. PARIS, Nov. 2.—The Exposition will be officially closed Wednesday, but not really. Certainly the 26,000,000 tickets have been exhausted. Gen. Franklin sailed for America on the City of New York. The Post-Dispatch correspondent asked Assistant Turk to-day: "Has the exhibition done any real good to the American exhibitors?" He said: "Certainly, to great many it has resulted very largely in increased business and good will for the future. The exhibition of American products has done remarkably well. The samples exhibited were sold twice over and a second consignment sent for. The Arizona petrified woods also did well. Although quite unknown here before they have become the craze."

"Are the American exhibitors pleased with the awards made them?" "On the whole, yes. There are some malcontents, of course. The cigarette men don't think they got all they deserved, but then no grand prize was given for cigarettes at all."

"And the Commission, how are they satisfied with the exhibition?" "As a whole, they are pleased. They have been a good deal criticized, but the people forget we had only one year and $20,000 to do the same work which Mexico and the Argentine Republic spent three years and a million dollars over. We came together late and had to be satisfied with the space that could be spared us. As to the awards, we must mention that the only person in Spain aside from the Queen who really sided with Columbus in his time of need was the Abbess Marchena of the Rabida monastery, where the future discoverer stopped for shelter when, poor and wrecked, he first entered Spain after a long period of ill success in Portugal. The Abbess became so interested in his guest's visions that she introduced him at court. A feature of the proposed celebration is the restoration of the monastery of Rabida, in commemoration with the restoration of the worthy Abbess Marchena is not to be forgotten, as a large statue of him is to be placed in a conspicuous position over the front door of the monastery. One reason why the Spaniards are so soon in the field is a fear lest they should be forgotten, for instance by Italy, of which country Columbus was a native.

ON REALITY OF THE CARIBS. Bristol, England, is also putting forward claims for a centennial celebration in connection with the discovery of America, the event to take place in 1897. John and Sebastian Cabot, the latter a native of the place, just 400 years ago, sighted the desolate shores of Labrador, ran down the coast to what is now New England, and planted the flag of England on that soil. In an ancient Bristol manuscript runs this record: "In the year 1497, the 24th of June, St. John's Day, was Newfoundland found by Bristol men in a ship called the Mathew. The Cabots discovered the continent a year before Columbus reached the Orinoco, hence Bristol may claim some

THE HATFELDT. An Unpleasant Scene Prevented—Americans Abroad—Society Group. Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch. ORDON, Nov. 2.—The ceremony maintained as to the precise hour of the Hatzfeldt wedding was for the purpose of preventing a scene of the kind which occurred at the wedding of the Countess of Arundell, who was offered to in an exact manner from a Paris paper cabled the "Hatzfeldt" last night, came to London with a companion for the purpose of making a row at the ceremony, but she got muddled in her plans and arrived after everything had passed off smoothly. United States Government is highly pleased at results. After the lists were published we received from Secretary Blaine a telegram saying to accept his sincere congratulations on the very gratifying results obtained by America at the exhibition. Our relations with foreign commissioners have been friendly in the extreme and with the commissioners of Portugal, Switzerland, Italy, Denmark, Japan, Holland and the South American States, especially so. The only commission with which we have not knocked it off well is the Belgium. I saw what Carlier said about us in an interview published in the Post-Dispatch. We thought it very unjust. The reason why Carlier did not like us is that at the opening of the exhibition he and the commissioners for Belgium were frightened lest the foreign exhibitors were not going to be fairly treated by the French in the matter of awards. Carlier tried to get up a combination of foreign commissioners against the French to uphold mutual interests. With this scheme we would have nothing to do. Carlier has not forgiven us for that."

SENATOR EVARTS.

His Failing Eyes Gradually Growing Strong Again.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Nov. 2.—Senator Everts says his health has improved wonderfully since he has been in Europe. His eyes are fairly restored. The cure at Carlsbad did the most good. From there he went to Vienna, in care of Dr. Fuchs, who gave extremely encouraging promises of the restoration of his sight in a few weeks. "The cure I am following," said the Senator to-day, "is directed to the absorption of deposits in the retina. That absorption has progressed favorably, but still I am a martyr and cannot read. Here in Paris, with plenty of time on my hands, within ten minutes' walk of the marvelous Exhibition, I am absolutely forbidden to go near it for fear of fatiguing my eyes."

Beyond a few private dinners, Everts is very quiet in Paris. He leaves for London on Monday to stop a week before returning to America.

MEXICO. Blaine's Hand Seen—Diaz Pleased—Editorial Contest. CITY OF MEXICO, VIA GALVESTON, Nov. 2.—The Sign of a New (newspaper) protest to see the hand of Secretary Blaine in the recent uprising in Guatemala. The Monitor del Pueblo, the first paper printed in Mexico, has suspended publication. President Diaz was greatly pleased when shown the telegram announcing that the medals given by the Kansas City Smelter Works to the Pan-American delegates bore his bust as well as that of President Harrison. The Senate yesterday elected Senor Aspe President. The negro colonization measure came up on the order of second reading and was open for discussion. The Chamber of Deputies has elected Senor Romero President.

The editors of El Nacional have published a challenge to the editors of El Siglo Diez y Nueve. KALAKAU'S KINGDOM. Trial of the Kingmaker of the Recent Revolt at Honolulu. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 2.—Advice from Honolulu by the steamer Austral states that the trial of Robert Wilcox, the leader of the insurgents in the July rioting, came to an abrupt termination, as the juryman expressed a bias before the court. The jury was accordingly dismissed. Application was then made to have Wilcox released on bail, but the question has not yet been decided.

THE AMERICAN PRIZE. The United States steamer Alert, which is to sail for San Francisco with Admiral Kimberly, did not leave Honolulu a week ago. The Nipale, Iroquois and Mohican were also still there.

ALL FOR IRELAND.

Dillon and His Companions Continue Their Work in the Australian Colonies. Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch. SYDNEY, New South Wales, Nov. 2.—John Dillon and his companions, having completed a successful campaign in Australia, sailed yesterday for New Zealand, where they will continue their crusade for the Irish cause. They had received pressing invitations and expect to reap a rich harvest.

CABLE GLEANINGS.

Striking Miners in Belgium Addressed by the Minister of the Interior. Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch. BRUSSELS, Nov. 2.—The Belgian Minister of the Interior received at Brussels this afternoon a delegation from striking miners at Mores and vicinity. He implored them to prevent a general strike, which, he said, would be a calamity for Belgium and would only benefit foreigners. His remarks made a strong impression on the delegation.

Changes in the Russian Diplomatic Corps.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 2.—The Russian government has made a number of changes in its diplomatic corps abroad, some of which are of more or less political significance. Among them is the recall of Prince Dolgorouff, Russian Ambassador at Tehran, who will be succeeded by M. De Buzkov, now Russian Minister at Athens. The vacant place at the Greek court will be filled by the promotion of M. Onon, Counselor of the Russian Embassy at Constantinople, to the rank of Minister and his transfer to Athens.

A Fiend in Hungary.

VIENNA, Nov. 2.—A schoolmaster named Steiner at Baken, Hungary, satiated his wife's clothing with oil while she slept and set the fire to it. He stood by and watched her while she was burned to death.

News From Stapley.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Mr. Nelson, father of Stanley's chief officer, has received a letter from his son conveying the assurance that Stanley will arrive at Zanzibar some time in January.

Hamburg Steamship Companies.

BERLIN, Nov. 2.—It is announced that three of the large shipping companies of Hamburg are about to combine in one immense corporation.

A Strike Imminent at Antwerp.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 2.—A general strike of the dock laborers at Antwerp is imminent. The men are very much excited, and are being closely watched by the military.

Heavy Failures.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The famous Norwegian lumber dealer, Brodin, has failed, with liabilities amounting, it is said, to 1,500,000 crowns.

Marvellous Engineering.

EDINBURGH, Nov. 2.—The new railway bridge across the Firth of Forth, one of the most marvelous pieces of engineering of the century, is shortly to be put to the test of carrying fifty locomotives hitched together and traveling back and forth at varying rates of speed.

Tragic Fate of an Electric Light Employee—A Day's Mishaps.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch. PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 2.—An employee of the Keystone Electric Co. was instantly killed to-day while working in the shaft of the elevator of the Fidelity Title & Trust Co.'s building, on Fourth avenue. He was putting up some wires in the shaft and the elevator boy, not knowing he was there, started up with the elevator. The weight coming down struck the unfortunate man on the head, crushing his skull and killing him instantly. The body dropped down through the shaft in the elevator and fell from the fifth story into the basement. The name of the victim was Charles Koles, a single man, aged 25 years. He was a native of St. Joseph, Mo. A telegram was sent to them announcing his tragic fate.

Probably Fatally Hurt.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch. JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 2.—Brooks Hardy, son of the late Jack Hardy, the best known sporting man in the South, met with a serious accident at the Summit Fair last evening. Just after a race in attempting to jump over a fence or railing near the track he struck a dagger that was in his pocket in his abdomen. Some neighbors tried to assist him, but his clothes were burned off. There is no hope of his recovery.

AVENGER.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch. ACHILSON, Kan., Nov. 2.—Baptista Osterberg, the 12-year-old daughter of George Osterberg, met with a serious gasoline accident to-day. He was unconscious and not likely to live. He was alone and his clothes caught fire and covered with oil he rushed out into the street. Some neighbors tried to assist him, but his clothes were burned off. There is no hope of his recovery.

To Honor Fallen Heroes.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch. FORT SMITH, Ark., Nov. 2.—Gen. Brittain is having the exact spot on which each of Custer's men fell marked by a stake driven deeply into the ground. Yesterday in setting the stakes the men came upon the skeletons of five of Custer's soldiers who had never been buried. Scott Campbell first discovered them. To-day coffins were sent up, with a few Orinoco bones in the case, the men, massacred at Fort Pitt Kearney in 1897, will bury the Custer men with honors of war, thus giving them decent interment at last, after three years' waiting.

NEW ORLEANS FOR ST. LOUIS.

The Crescent City Names Her Choice for the Fair.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 2.—At the meeting of the City Council held Tuesday night a resolution to endorse Chicago as the site of the World's Fair of 1892 was offered, discussed and finally referred to the Committee on Public Order. The Council then met to-night, and Gen. Charles W. Squires of St. Louis was present. He presented the claims of that city, and spoke most particularly of the advantage afforded by the Mississippi River and the opportunities that stream offered for the transportation of exhibits from foreign countries. He said New Orleans is as much interested in having the Exposition held in St. Louis as St. Louis is herself. Their trade relations are close, and otherwise the position is equally important. St. Louis, he said, has always been friendly to New Orleans and in Congress the Missouri representatives have always stood for the improvement of the Mississippi. Mr. Squires presented maps and circulars substantiating all that had been said in favor of St. Louis. The committee finally voted in favor of St. Louis and recommended that wherever the word Chicago occurred in the resolution introduced in the Council it be changed, and the word St. Louis be substituted. The resolution thus amended will be reported for final passage next Tuesday night.

JOHN B. DAY'S HOT SHOT.

HE FIRES A LEGAL BROADSIDE INTO THE BROTHERHOOD RANKS.

The Opinions of Eminent Counsel Confirm His Position—An Intimation That Suits for Damages Will Harass the Players' Backers—An Appeal for Reconciliation—The Giants' President Has a Backbone.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The following rather remarkable letter has been issued by President Day of the New York Base Ball Club, which explains itself:

To the Public:
Soon after the announcement in the public press that the Brotherhood of ball players contemplated serving its connection with the National League, the New York Club received a communication from John J. Rogers, counsel to the League, to the effect that the League club held an option to the services of such players as would be reserved for the season next ensuing. Desiring confirmation of this opinion, the club applied to Mr. J. F. C. Blackhurst, who, as is generally known, drafted the contract adopted and now in use between the League and the Brotherhood.

Mr. Blackhurst rendered the opinion here endorsed, fully supporting Mr. Rogers' position. Not wishing to add to the agitation already too widespread, and believing that the decision of Mr. Rogers would not be disputed, it was decided not to make the opinion of Mr. Blackhurst public. Quite recently an alleged opinion adverse to that of Mr. Rogers' has appeared in the public press. Realizing that the interests of both the clubs and the players would be best conserved by a thorough understanding of the situation, and wishing to set at rest once and for all time the legal questions involved,

We instructed our counsel to lay the whole matter before the eminent law firm of Evans, Choate & Beaman, and secure their opinion, of which we inclose a copy. The additional comments of our Counsel, Mr. Dwyer, who also inclose, should the Brotherhood at its coming convention decide to end the existing relations between its members and the League, we are unable to say. The League will or will not authorize its club members to end such relations, and by contracts upon the services of reserved players.

It is the earnest wish of every officer of the New York Base Ball Club that the very pleasant relations now existing between the club and the Brotherhood will be continued. We heartily join its players in an effort to heal the breach now existing between the League and the Brotherhood, and we wish to see that such effort will result successfully.

The New York Base Ball Club, John B. Day, President.

JOHN B. DAY, President New York Base Ball Club.
DEAR SIR:—In regard to the question as to the liability of persons aiding the players in breaking their reserved contracts with the League, which is the subject of the letter of Messrs. Evans, Choate & Beaman hereto annexed, I would say that in my opinion a player who contracts with the League, and who is bound by the terms of such contract, may not be released from his obligations by the aid of others, and that any person who aids him in such release, or who induces him to break his contract, is liable to the League for damages. I am, Sir, very respectfully,
Yours for the game, G. W. DWYER.

THERE'LL be an upheaval in the housekeeping world when Barr's bargains for this week get noised abroad.

Our Department Managers, during their fall visits to the great manufacturing centers, have been able to make several extensive cash purchases, and we invite your money-saving attention to what we have to say on the various subjects under the head of

Here's an announcement that'll bring you by the thousands:

The biggest linen sale in the history of our house! Bought of Richardson Sons & Ornden, the great Belfast manufacturers, an immense stock of the finest damask made, which we will open this week at fifty per cent below the retail price. Cloths two yards square to 3 1/2 yards long, with 3-quarter napkins to match, in the elegant Japanese, medieval, Duke of Leinster, poppy, fern and fruit designs.

One constituent consists entirely of a superb quality of double-satin damask cloths.

COMING IN GREAT STYLE.

MONTANA NOT TO BE BEHIND IN THE NATIONAL SILVER CONVENTION.

Opposition to Unite With Idaho—Headquarters, Banners, Etc., Suggested—Senator Stewart Announces the Subject of His Address—Other Telegrams—A Letter From Senator Teller.

ONTANA promises to come to the National Silver Convention with a sound of trumpets that can be heard from one end of the land to the other.

Colorado first began to make preparations to come with banners, special trains, cars, etc., but Montana has not been slow to act, and will be in good shape.

The beginning of the movement is seen in the following from the Helena Herald, received by Mr. Samuel Schwab, one of the Montana delegates, now in the city.

"From looking over the St. Louis excitement, the Herald is satisfied that there will be a great rivalry among the delegations from the mining States and Territories as to which shall have the best and most striking representation at the National Silver Convention which meets there next month. Colorado is already in the field and has rented rooms in a prominent place in the business portion of St. Louis for the headquarters of its delegation, which are even now being decorated and made ready for use. What has Montana done? Nothing that we are aware of except to appoint delegates to the convention. We suggest, therefore, that these delegates, whose names were published by the Herald on the day of their appointment, get together at an early day and devise some plan of action for the Montana contingent. One of the delegates, Samuel Schwab, is already in St. Louis, and if telegraphed in time, he could see to the establishment and furnishing of proper headquarters for the Montana delegation. This should be done at once, otherwise Montana, the GREATEST MINERAL PRODUCING STATE in the Union, will have to take a back seat in the Silver Convention to make room for her less rich, but more enterprising competitors, Colorado and Utah. As a producer of $38,000,000 last year of gold, silver, copper and lead, a handsome proportion of which was from the white metal, the representatives of Montana in the Silver Convention should make a showing second to none in the body. This can only be done by organized effort. Let a meeting of the delegates be held, and, if necessary, let the silver miners of the State be called upon to contribute funds to defray the expenses incident to the occasion. Let suitable headquarters be provided in St. Louis and the finest specimens of ore and bullion obtainable from our silver mines be there placed on exhibition for the benefit of the thousands who will visit those headquarters during the convention. Let banners and badges be painted and sent on with our delegates to mark their place in the convention hall. In short, let the thing be done in style, and in a style befitting the greatest producer of silver and all other metals among the States of the Union. Montana has a future and a reputation at stake, and the only way to play second fiddle to Colorado, Utah or any other commonwealth in a national convention such as is to be held at St. Louis next month. Gentlemen and delegates, the time is short. Get to work."

THE HUGO CALL.

Mr. Schwab was seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter after he had received the above.

"Without attempting to dictate anything from this distance," he said, "I have written a number of letters home with a view of acquainting the people there as to the importance and popularity of the movement. A NEW BROOM NEEDED.

DILAPIDATED CONDITION OF THE ILLINOIS STATE CAPITOL.

Appropriations Ample, but Nothing Done for Them—Gen. Favey and Henry Utter Fighting to a Finish—Some Pertinent Questions Propounded—Favorable Prospects for Clemency—New Corporations.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 2.—The visit of the all-American to the State capital was the feature of the week. The patriotic rain interfered with the grand show of live stock at the Fair Ground, which would probably have been interesting to the members of the congress, who were visiting the Lincoln monument, were killed and died at the Leland Hotel and in the evening given a grand reception by the Governor at the State-house, after which they were hurriedly shown through the building which is the pride of all Illinois.

The visitors' time was so short, however, that the inspection of the Capitol building was quite limited. The committee did not have time to show them into the five or six furnished rooms that are occupied by State employees and others and the distinguished Southerners did not get the impression that they were visiting the best State bed-house. Possibly the committee did not know that such a disgraceful state of affairs exists; if so they are excusable. Most likely there are few State capitals in the Union that have a furnished room department in connection with the business of the State Government, where a select class of persons are supplied with free lodgings at the expense of the taxpayers of the State. On such reasonable terms it would seem that the occupants of these rooms could afford to keep them in a clean condition, but such is not the case. They are not only filthy but are infested with vermin. During the week sessions of the Legislature, one honorable member was in the habit of hanging his overcoat during the day in one of these rooms, and in a short time was very much mortified to find that he was carrying bed-bugs to the house of the lady with whom he boarded. The idea of having sleeping rooms, alive with vermin in a State capital building is a matter that, while it is new, is not something that the citizens of the State may take pride in. The Illinois State pigeon roost now seems to have been permanently located in the dome of the State-house, and the State is now so infested by these uncanny fowl that the place has become most disagreeably filthy. The result in the parties is that the State is allowed to continue in this filthy condition, and if the present condition of things is allowed to continue it will result in scouring the light almost from the State.

Within the past two or three years the State-house has caught fire two or three times. The effect of the fire has not been the fault of the free lodging system. A NEW BROOM NEEDED.

DILAPIDATED CONDITION OF THE ILLINOIS STATE CAPITOL.

Appropriations Ample, but Nothing Done for Them—Gen. Favey and Henry Utter Fighting to a Finish—Some Pertinent Questions Propounded—Favorable Prospects for Clemency—New Corporations.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 2.—The visit of the all-American to the State capital was the feature of the week. The patriotic rain interfered with the grand show of live stock at the Fair Ground, which would probably have been interesting to the members of the congress, who were visiting the Lincoln monument, were killed and died at the Leland Hotel and in the evening given a grand reception by the Governor at the State-house, after which they were hurriedly shown through the building which is the pride of all Illinois.

The visitors' time was so short, however, that the inspection of the Capitol building was quite limited. The committee did not have time to show them into the five or six furnished rooms that are occupied by State employees and others and the distinguished Southerners did not get the impression that they were visiting the best State bed-house. Possibly the committee did not know that such a disgraceful state of affairs exists; if so they are excusable. Most likely there are few State capitals in the Union that have a furnished room department in connection with the business of the State Government, where a select class of persons are supplied with free lodgings at the expense of the taxpayers of the State. On such reasonable terms it would seem that the occupants of these rooms could afford to keep them in a clean condition, but such is not the case. They are not only filthy but are infested with vermin. During the week sessions of the Legislature, one honorable member was in the habit of hanging his overcoat during the day in one of these rooms, and in a short time was very much mortified to find that he was carrying bed-bugs to the house of the lady with whom he boarded. The idea of having sleeping rooms, alive with vermin in a State capital building is a matter that, while it is new, is not something that the citizens of the State may take pride in. The Illinois State pigeon roost now seems to have been permanently located in the dome of the State-house, and the State is now so infested by these uncanny fowl that the place has become most disagreeably filthy. The result in the parties is that the State is allowed to continue in this filthy condition, and if the present condition of things is allowed to continue it will result in scouring the light almost from the State.

Within the past two or three years the State-house has caught fire two or three times. The effect of the fire has not been the fault of the free lodging system. DID HE PAY HER $100,000?

THE ROMANTIC STORY CONNECTED WITH A PLEASANT STREET WEDDING.

Pretty Miss Mamie Idell, aged 20, married Jesse Fovey, aged 25, of Calhoun County, Ill., at the Old Main Hotel in St. Louis, Nov. 2. The bride was paid heavily for her happiness—A Recorder's Office Romance.

There was quite a ripple of interest in the office of Recorder of Deeds Hobbs in the Court-house some days ago when a tall, beautiful girl of the brunette type, in age scarcely more than twenty, came in with a man whose 70 years were plainly marked in his appearance to procure a marriage license. The names were given as Jesse Fovey, of Calhoun County, Ill., and Mamie Idell of 4119 Pleasant street, St. Louis.

The young girl's beauty was of the splendid order with regular features, great dark eyes and a luxuriant mass of dark hair which was worn in a coil. Her husband was a man of the ideal Cleopatra and her manners showed refinement and education. She was attired in a pretty fashion and her conversation was quiet and well sustained. Her aged fiancé on the other hand was destitute entirely of any personal charm, and his face fairly beamed with desire and ambition. He was a man of the ideal Cleopatra and her manners showed refinement and education. She was attired in a pretty fashion and her conversation was quiet and well sustained. Her aged fiancé on the other hand was destitute entirely of any personal charm, and his face fairly beamed with desire and ambition.

A POST-DISPATCH representative, who was near by, was interested in the remark made by one of the friends to a bystander: "Do you see that girl?" he said.

"She's just been paid a $100,000 to marry an old man." The reporter was not at all surprised at the story and the following facts were obtained: A call at the former home of the bride on Pleasant street found no one in the house. The blinds were drawn and there was a deserted look about the place, though the house and grounds were well kept. The residence is a most comfortable structure, but its present appearance is in square, red and pleasing and the grounds still show a grassy slope. Here lives Isaac Fovey, the nephew of the aged bridegroom. Pleasant street, which is out in the Fair Ground neighborhood, is not all that its name implies, at least so far as walking space. It is partly unpaved and the few new houses are simply glimpses of the future. From the neighbors it was ascertained that the wedding had taken place on Thursday and the happy pair had left for Calhoun County, where their future home will be, on that day, taking with them a little girl, the daughter of Isaac Fovey, a war widow, who had been living with the bridegroom's mother. Miss Idell had resided for several years, taking care of his two children, a girl and boy. One of the neighbors, upon being questioned, replied: "We have all heard that old Mr. Fovey paid Miss Idell a great deal of money to marry him. I can't say exactly how much, but they say he's got a good deal of money."

THE FRANKLIN SCHOOL FINISHED—Really a Fine Achievement in a Week.

The new Franklin School building will be opened Wednesday. It is a fine achievement in a week. The building was opened a few weeks ago. The two buildings cost nearly $70,000. They are nearly three stories high and have twelve rooms. No city in the State now has better facilities for the education of its rising generation than East St. Louis.

The delegates to the N. M. C. Convention which convened in Springfield, Mo., last week, will make their reports to the Association at the regular meeting this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

TEN YEARS OF SOCIETY.

SOME OF THE NOTABLE ENTERTAINMENTS GIVEN IN THIS CITY.

Seasons That Have Been Brilliant—Past Pleasures Recalled—St. Louis Society in 1870—The Change That Has Taken Place in Leadership—Some of the Finest Balls and Receptions Described—Notable Public Entertainments.

(Written for the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.)

Ten years taken from a century seems only a trifle, but ten years eliminated from the life of a belle leaves a void hard to fill. If any one of our popular young society matrons who has been in the social scene for ten years were to do a little social bookkeeping she would have quite a formidable array of debits to put on the debit side of her account. Even a Father Time and a beneficent fate—figures that would bear witness to happy hours and some memorable experiences. They would speak of the thrill of triumph as she stepped on the stage in her dainty white muslin to receive the ribbon—diploma that crowned her career as a schoolgirl; of the flutter of her heart as she bent beneath the slender satin bodice of her first low-necked gown as she stood in girlish gladness before the mirror whilst mamma and maid arranged and disarranged the tulle draperies that made her look so demurely as she came out to party; they would tell of the miles and miles that she had walked in many a gaily decked ball room; of the gallions and railions of less that she had consumed in the fascinating society of Jack, and Charlie, and Tom and dozens of others; of the parties of joyous revelry, the frolics and the Saturday night performances at the theatre, Miss Terry were a string of trailing and repeating the same between a reception toilet and a tea gown.

The season of 1888-89 was prolific in gorgeous entertainments. A great deal of social attention, cancelled his obligations to his numerous friends and society generally. The season of the largest and most elaborate entertainments ever known in St. Louis, took place at the residence of Mrs. W. L. Garrison, who was the recipient of a great deal of social attention, cancelled his obligations to his numerous friends and society generally. There are few cities that have so enviable a social life as St. Louis, and fewer still blessed with so many brilliant and beautiful women who reign at the head of beautiful and refined society. Even a brief list of those who have been for years the leaders in the best circles must include the names of Mrs. J. L. D. Morrison, Mrs. Mary Scanlan and her sister, Mrs. Peter L. Foy, Mrs. Rufus J. Lackland, Mrs. Gen. Henderson, Mrs. Carr, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. R. K. Hutcheson, Mrs. Nat. Gay, Mrs. William Ward, Mrs. Dr. Morrison, and a score of others. Time has made changes in society as in everything else, and not a few of our social favorites have passed out of the ranks during the last decade. Lovely Nellie Hazeltine Farnore, noted all over the continent for her charms of mind and person, whose last husband, the artist, died in 1888, was a social favorite. Her death, so far as of face, is also mourned among the dead. Cora Baker, as Mrs. Chouteau, lives in Dakota, when not traveling. Ella Parker became Mrs. Cassius Robinson, and moved to Detroit. Mrs. Mary and her glorious brown eyes and rare mental gifts, in now Mrs. Albert Terry Kelly and a baronet in the best of the aristocratic suburb, Stamford, Nancy Chouteau, as Mrs. Albert Johnson, is in West where her husband's duties call. THE MOST NOTABLE EVENT OF THE SEASON. The large ball given by her parents to Miss Lucy Russell, who was with her with embroidered gauze draperies, and of all the gay young belles who thronged the flower-decked ballroom none were destined to be more popular than the fair young hostess, who made her debut under such bright auspices. Later in the season a German was given by Mrs. Dousman, complimentary to her sister, Miss Ella Struening, the spectacle of a German and a Frenchman at the corner of Twenty-eighth and Locust streets was thrown open to receive the strong of guests, and the young ladies were seen from all the old families in the city. THE RECORD OF A WEEK'S DOINGS BOTH
WINE AND NOT SO.

[Written for the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.]

One disagreeable thing about the past week was the weather. It was supposed to have any as yet the subject.

Cloudy and damp, sultry and cold and suddenly unstable, as only the weather in New York City can be, it was a nuisance in its use, and I know people do things that they would not do otherwise.

Yesterday morning for instance, Marie and I went to the gallery to see the new collection. Marie was searching for an antique book to get a receipt for a new kind of angel, and I sat myself in the middle of a room surrounded by a sea of old magazines and newspapers, looking for the advertisements. They were very interesting, but I was a little out of the subject.

Miss Lillie Grier of Peoria, Ill., is making a visit to Miss Lillie King at her home in Kirkwood.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McEntire are here from Illinois, and will remain until the end of the month.

Mr. Charles J. Gratian left last week to visit friends in Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Harris, who went last week to Columbia to attend the marriage of her brother, Mr. Harris, to Miss Jennie Oldism, have returned to the city.

The marriage of Edward Wenneker to Miss Helen Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Carter, took place Thursday night at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 2348 Montgomery street. None but intimate relatives were present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. David Hueson of the Eden M. E. church, Nineteenth and Warren streets, of which both Mr. and Mrs. Wenneker are members. The bride was escorted by her bridesmaid, Mrs. 2313 Montgomery street, where they all see their friends.

As first glance the buildings are NOT SO IMPRESSIVE as one would have expected, for they do not creep up to impress the stories below. They are all substantial and well kept. The main streets are broad, more or less straight, and everything seems to be done to keep good order. When we came here for the summer season there was naturally considerable difficulty in finding a suitable location. We were told that the only place for a hotel was in the hills, but we do not take things for granted. There seems to be no place for ourselves. I cannot help
